

Hello from Branson!

Karen and I are back in Branson for our “Fall Run” through the end of the year. A year ago when this opportunity was first presented to us, by Art Reed, little did I know we would be where we are today.

As you have seen on my web, we started last January and have had a great time meeting so many amazing people from all over the US. Recently, another opportunity has come along and we are expanding. We are still at the Branson Mill on 3300 N. Gretna Rd., but we are moving to a larger booth in the Mill. I will have 3X the space I had before, so I can expand my shop and have more room for classes.

Moving Day

The larger booth also offered Karen an opportunity to paint and work with the crafts she has enjoyed for so many years. She has her own “space” now and we will be working side by side in this exciting adventure. As you can see by the pictures Mrs. M has been one busy lady. Our schedule here is being expanded and we hope, that when you come to Branson, you will please stop by to say hello.

Setting up

The Branson Mill is a great place to visit. It has so many outstanding and unique Craftsman, showing their skills and the outstanding work they do. Remember, I have a map on my Home Page to show you where we are. I know we are here only half the time, but look at our schedule and come see us when you can. I am still teaching at Midwest Woodworkers in Omaha and at Iowa Western Community College in Council Bluffs as well.

Class time

Our expanded Branson schedule as well as the Omaha -- Southwest Iowa schedules are posted on the Home Page, the Branson Page, and the Omaha Page of our website. Please check it out.

If you got this in an e-mail just, e-mail me back or call if you wish.
